

Adyen's Internet Payment System granted PSD License

Adyen, the leading provider of global Internet Payment and e-commerce solutions, has today announced that it has been granted a license as Payment Institution under the Payment Services Directive (PSD). The license allows Adyen to operate more freely across Europe, and also cements its place as one of the world's most trustworthy payment service providers (PSPs).

The PSD license is a EU regulation to aid the industry in making payments across Europe more transparent and efficient. The license is only provided to payment companies that comply with a wide set of rules and obligations that ensure quality and stability of the payment sector.

"We are delighted to have been granted a PSD license; it confirms that Adyen is operating in line with the highest industry standards," explained Roelant Prins, CCO of Adyen. "Adyen operates at the forefront of the industry; it is in line that Adyen is one of the first companies to receive this license. PCI compliance and holding a PSD license are requirements to deliver on a global scale to the biggest ecommerce companies as Adyen is currently doing."
